"When it became apparent that my dad needed help caring for his wife as her health declined, they considered options with the goal of living together as long as possible. They chose to move into an Independent Living + apartment, where they enjoyed social activities and prepared meals in the restaurant-style dining room. It was a wonderful relief that they were able to live so fully and stay together in the same place even as more care and services were needed. Independent Living+ was the perfect fit for them."
